There is an increasing need for interculturally competent teachers

Status quo

- heterogeneity in classrooms rises
- increasingly globalized society and work environment
- social development towards increasing xenophobia and Euroscepticism

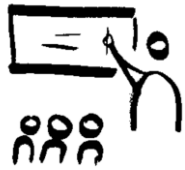

Needs

- intercultural competences are indispensable in teachers
- teachers need to function “ambassadors for an international mindset”

Yet, international experiences in German teacher training face various barriers

Barriers

... in Germany

- responsibilities for student teachers within HEI are unclear
- low integration of international experiences in TT curricula
- financing

especially first generation academics

... abroad

- internships abroad are not always recognized as academic performance
- little support for students abroad

especially for future teachers of non-linguistic subjects

... on the job

- international experiences not professionally considered a “plus”
 - neither at job entry level
 - nor within professional career

„Lehramt.International“ aims to reduce these barriers...

Goals

to qualify future teachers for managing cultural diversity at school to improve higher education and political frameworks to strengthen the international visibility and recognition of German teacher training programmes

- Is it possible to apply a second time, if I already got a scholarship within the programme “Lehramt International“ ?

It is only possible to get one scholarship per funding line (funding line 1 as a student and funding line 2 as a graduate).

- Are there any requirements concerning the school internship?

Internships that are mandatory according to the TT curriculum, should be designed in a way that makes it theoretically possible for the home HEI to recognize it as an academic performance. This also applies to voluntary internships: While the exact contents, activities and scope do not have to coincide entirely with the curriculum, the curriculum should be used as a guideline. For instance: teaching, work shadowing, assistance in the preparation of curricula etc.

Module B - FAQs

Module B internships

for future teachers

▪ Which institutions can be considered for an internship?

Educational establishments.

Educational establishments include primary, secondary, and vocational education institutions. Please consider that internships at private language schools will not be funded. Internships at HEIs are not possible either.

▪ Are specific language skills required?

No. Language skills specific to the host country are desirable, but not required for the application.

▪ Is it possible to complete a part time internship?

No. The internship has to be completed as a full-time employment (in accordance with the legal framework of the host country).
