National Initiative

Vision of CIVIS

The aim of CIVIS is to tackle the major societal challenges of the 21st century, to provide relevant teaching and research as well as to act responsibly and sustainably with a view to the future.

Innovative course and exchange formats open up new perspectives for all members of the CIVIS universities and the strategic partners in Africa. Five CIVIS Hubs bundle academic cooperation on key issues of our time – across national and disciplinary boundaries. Supported by experts, teachers and researchers develop new formats in which they work on academic theories with students and then apply them to a concrete societal need. CIVIS also offers new opportunities for professional networking and cooperation for non-academic staff, both virtually and on campus in person.

In addition to this international dimension, the CIVIS universities are firmly rooted in their urban and regional surroundings. With the CIVIS Open Labs, they actively contribute to the social, cultural and economic dynamics of this environment and create collaborations far beyond the universities.

ACCOMPANYING NATIONAL PROGRAMME

Priorities and Project Activities

The following four sub-projects aim to sustainably integrate CIVIS into the University of Tübingen, into the everyday study, research and work of its members, as well as into the city and the civil society of Tübingen:

- Support of Tübingen's academics in the creation and implementation of high-quality, innovative study and teaching programmes within the framework of the five CIVIS Hubs
- Further development of the CIVIS Open Lab at the University of Tübingen as a platform for problem-based and solution-oriented collaboration between the university and societal stakeholders
- Further development of digital, blended and traditional mobility formats within CIVIS and their integration in support services at the University of Tübingen
- Raising awareness about the University of Tübingen in the CIVIS Alliance and about CIVIS at the University of Tübingen, as well as supporting the networking and collaboration of the local actors
